Johnstown Tobacco Barn No. 2

Charles County, MD

ca. 19th Century.

The Johnsontown Tobacco Barn No. 2 is an early-19th-century tobacco barn that provides evidence of the first use of fires for curing tobacco. The barn was constructed c. 1820 at the edge of an agricultural field on the north side of Johnsontown Road near LaPlata, Maryland. The barn is significant as one of only a few documented tobacco barns in Southern Maryland with evidence of the fire-curing process.

Protecting Our Past, Investing in Our Future

Preservation Maryland is a nonprofit dedicated to revitalizing and reinvesting in communities, advocating for historic places, and building the historic trades workforce for the benefit of all Marylanders. This paper model is part of our Building Communities series, which highlights the history and architecture of Maryland's historic structures—and the ongoing impact they have on the communities where they reside. To support Preservation Maryland and our Historic Property Redevelopment Program, visit www.presmd.org/donate.

Support for this project comes from the Maryland 250 Commission, celebrating Maryland's rich 250-year history.

Instructions
